It will save and load your settings and allow you to change between them with an easy to use interface. The idea for this application came from my frustrations over not having a quick way in Internet Explorer to switch between using a proxy server and not. If you are someone who is connected to a network which has a proxy and other networks where you don't, this application was designed to be a simpler, but effective way to change between them. The interface is designed to be as user friendly as possible to give the ability to change between them in no time. The program is designed to be a starting point for many different uses. It is very flexible in that it has the ability to support several different proxy configurations. This can be done by having a separate profile for each different proxy or use profile groups to have several different configurations setup for different uses. For example if you want to use the same computer to browse from work and from home, you can do that with a single configuration and make it available in the database. If your proxy is not a version of the Microsoft Proxy Server (SOCKS) or Remote Desktop Connection, it will be changed to a new
